Recession

Members of the audience are requested to remain in their seats until the Platform Party and the graduates have recessed.

Following the Convocation ceremony light refreshments will be served. The University extends a cordial invitation to all persons present at Convocation to attend, especially the graduates of the day, their families, and friends. Reception locations are noted below.

First balcony foyer: Faculties of Graduate Studies and Research and Business.

Main floor foyer: All other faculties.

The Presentation

The Dean of the Faculty of Graduate Studies and Research asks the candidates for degrees to rise, and presents them with these words:

"Eminent Chancellor and President, on behalf of the Faculties, I present to you these scholars and ask that they be pledged and admitted to the degrees to which they are entitled."

The Pledge

The President, then rising, addresses the candidates in these words:

"Do you promise faithfully to observe and loyally to maintain the statutes, customs, privileges and liberties of this your University? Do you solemnly promise to conduct yourself in all things loyally and faithfully to the honor of your University, the encouragement of learning and the good of your country?"

Each candidate replies: "These things I pledge myself to do."

The Admission

The Chancellor then addresses the candidates in these words:

"By virtue of the authority vested in me by the Legislature of this Province, and with the consent of this University, I admit you to the degrees to which you are entitled, and invest you with all the powers, rights and privileges pertaining to such degrees, and I charge you to use them for the Glory of God and the honor of your country."

Graduates then sit down.

Dorothy Easton received her nursing degree from the University of Alberta and was active in the area of public health in this province prior to moving to Sarnia, Ontario, where she continued her professional and volunteer activities. It was during her years in Sarnia that she particularly distinguished herself, working steadfastly toward the establishment of much needed diagnostic and treatment facilities for troubled children in the area. Mrs. Easton's devotion to this cause resulted in the establishment of the Sarnia Lambton Centre for Children and Youth, of which she became the founding director. This is a mental health centre which uses an interdisciplinary approach in dealing with physically and emotionally handicapped children.

Several years later, Mrs. Easton moved to Toronto where she became involved with the Kinark Child and Family Services, a non-profit mental health treatment centre with programs in eight communities. Kinark is the largest children's mental health treatment centre in Ontario, and Mrs. Easton serves as its executive director.

Douglas Roche, a Montreal native, was a journalist for twenty-three years before entering the political arena in 1972. He was elected Member of Parliament for Edmonton South and served the constituency for fourteen years before being appointed Ambassador for Disarmament in 1984.

Mr. Roche is a former parliamentary secretary for External Affairs and was the Canadian delegate to the Economic Committee for the XXXIV General Assembly of the United Nations. In 1982, Mr. Roche was appointed a consultant to the Canadian delegation to the United Nations' Second Special Session on Disarmament. In 1980, he was elected International Chair of Parliamentarians for World Order, a new parliamentary association which has 600 members in thirty countries. In this capacity, he led a delegation of senior parliamentarians to Moscow and Washington in 1982 to urge progress on negotiating reductions in nuclear arms.

The author of four books, he was awarded an honorary Doctor of Divinity degree by St. Stephen's College in 1977. Mr. Roche was awarded the 1983 Peace Award of the World.

Gowns, Hoods, and Mortar Boards

The tradition of academic dress dates back to the early 14th century. Its origins seem to have been mainly ecclesiastical but partly functional. Since the early institutions of higher learning in England were run by and for the members of religious orders, clerical discipline prevailed, and tonsured heads and clerical garb were required. However, it is probable that long woolen gowns were considered necessary in any case to shield medieval scholars from the dampness and cold of the unheated buildings and that hoods were used to provide warmth to their shaven heads.

The hoods or cowls of monastic orders, which in warm weather could be thrown back to fall between the shoulders, were superseded as headdress by the ecclesiastical calotte or skull cap, but were retained as a sort of cape. After the Reformation the clerical skull cap was replaced by the academic "round cap", a circular, velvet bonnet, which is still prescribed for higher degrees by a number of universities. The mortar board, the hard, square cap that is so commonly used as academic headdress today, evolved from the softer, more flexible "square cap" that was introduced in England in about 1490.

From these early beginnings a code of academic dress gradually evolved. Colors were introduced in the borders and linings of the hoods to distinguish between degrees in different fields of study, and a variety of patterns of both gowns and hoods was developed to distinguish between different levels of degrees.

Stoles

University Governors and Senators are eligible to wear stoles bearing the crest of the University over their gowns, gold faced for Governors and green faced for Senators. In addition they may wear mortar boards with gold or silver tassels.

Degrees with Honors

Degrees with Honors are awarded in two classes, First Class Honors and Honors, to students in the Faculties of Arts or Science with approved qualifications, who follow a more concentrated course of study in a special field under departmental supervision and in accordance with the requirements of the faculty and department.

Degrees with Distinction

The general university provision is that, at the discretion of the faculty concerned, the notation "With Distinction" is inscribed on the permanent record and graduation parchment of a candidate for any degree (except an honors or graduate degree), if the candidate has obtained a grade-point average of 7.5 or higher over the last two years of the program.
